COTTON FACTORIES IN THE SOUTH.

We publish in another column, the substance of a series of interviews with the practical manufacturers of Augusta on the subject of the comparative profit of manufacturing in the south and in New England. These interviews not only absolutely overturn the boast made by Gov. Straw, of New Hampshire, a few days ago, to the effect that New England was the inevitable field of cotton manufacturing in the United States, but shows that cotton factories in Georgia are marvelously good investments. We affirm without the fear of contradiction that no similar number of enterprises, in any business in any country could show such wonderful results as are shown by these Augusta factories. The cent-per-cent story of their earnings reads like some financial fiction, and anything but the perfect assurance that all Georgians have in the truth of the statement by their managers, could gain them public credulity. It is little surprise that in the face of all this prosperity in the factories now running there should found capitalists anxious to invest in new ones, and that two companies should now be in process of establishing factories.

The figures that we publish elsewhere besides dispersing a testy and ill-natured assertion made by a New England manufacturer, gives the stockholders in our Atlanta factory an assurance well-nigh perfect that they have wisely invested their money. We have no fears that it will speedily demonstrate itself a success, and that it will be the pioneer of a dozen just like it. In this conviction we may express our gratification at the numerous assurances lately received that the Atlanta factory will very soon be put in operation—the last obstacle to its successful opening having been overcome.

THE APPROACHING ELECTION.

The election to be held on the 5th inst (Wednesday) is one of the most important ever held in our city. It is the duty of every citizen to give his entire attention to this matter. In addition to the election ordered by the convention, we have an election under our charter for an alderman and five councilmen. The election under the former will be held (in the city) at two precincts, one at the city hall, and the other at Bell's lumber yard in rear of Moore, Marsh & Co. The election for the latter is to be held in each of the five wards. We fear there will be some confusion growing out of these two elections, and the excitement that has been growing for a few days past over the election for aldermen and councilmen is not calculated to prevent this difficulty.

If we get up an unnecessary excitement over the petty offices of aldermen and councilmen, and overlook the main issue upon which we are to vote on that day, we will make a great mistake. As it now stands, it is probable that on the day of the election the polling places in each ward where the aldermen and councilmen are to be elected will swarm with men active to secure the election of their special friends, while the election at the two county precincts in the city—where we ought to poll every vote we can, will be overlooked and neglected. We desire to call the attention of our citizens to this subject, and hope there will be some plan adopted by which this can be prevented. It would be to the discredit of our people to commit such a great mistake as as this. It is the duty of all our candidates and people to look alone to the main issue. If it is neglected, it will not take care of itself. It will need the attention of every one. Let each citizen see to it that his efforts are used to allay the unnecessary excitement that has been engendered over this municipal election, and turn his attention to get every voter to poll his vote on next Wednesday for the capital.

CONGRESSMEN FELTON is emphatic in expressing his opinion that the people of North Georgia ought, with one accord, to vote to retain the capital in Atlanta. The idea that the issue is a sectional one has been persistently impressed upon the people of southern and southwest Georgia by the Milledgeville champions, and while THE CONSTITUTION has endeavored to discuss the question in its relations to the whole state, it is impossible not to perceive that it is the duty of northern and northeast Georgia to give a solid vote next Wednesday for the retention of the capital where their especial convenience will be best subserved.

The Library Fair.

In response to the invitation of President Hill, a very large and enthusiastic number of ladies assembled at the library rooms on yesterday afternoon to perfect arrangements for the approaching fair. The interest which the ladies take in the library is most gratifying. Any enterprise to add to the treasury of the association always meets with the warmest support from them, and the manner in which they have taken hold of the fair assures beyond question its success. A complete list of the ladies who have agreed to take charge of departments and their assistants will be published during the week. The library is an institution in which we are all interested. Its success should appeal to the pride of every citizen, and we earnestly and confidently hope that the noble efforts of the ladies in its behalf will meet with the heartiest co-operation from all our people.

THE LIBRARY FAIR.

Meeting of Ladies Yesterday Afternoon.

There was a meeting of ladies at the library rooms yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering plans for the coming which is to begin on the 17th of December, and continue one week. The meeting was attended by a large number of the most influential ladies in the city, all of whom evidenced a hearty interest in the fair. Preliminary arrangements were discussed yesterday. There will be several more meetings of the ladies before the fair begins. Some day during the present week we will publish a full list of all the ladies who will take part in the fair. There will be lively work before the 17th, and we are prepared to book a big success.

WEDNESDAY'S WORK.

ATLANTA TO MARCH TO THE POLLS WITH 30,000 MAJORITY.

Interesting Notes from the Field—Furman on the Stump—The Result in Richmond County.

Oqinext Wednesday the question of the capital will be decided. There is no legitimate reason for doubting that Atlanta will be voted the capital by a very large majority. The favorable current is setting still stronger in favor of Atlanta, and will if the result is fairly announced, and no tricks are resorted to. It behooves every friend of Atlanta to go to the polls on the morning of the election, and do all that lies in his power to see that a full vote is polled, and every possible effort on us did to further Atlanta's cause. If this is done, there is no need to fear the result.

A VOICE FROM MUFFIE.

It seems that Atlanta will get a strong vote, where she expected to get nothing. The writer had a conversation with Mr. H. C. Roney, who was lately a candidate for senator in the district represented by Judge Reese, in which Mr. Roney said: "I am astonished to find what a large number of men in our county are for Atlanta. A month ago you might have counted every one on your fingers, and now you find them in nearly every neighborhood. Atlanta will very seriously divide the white vote of the county. It is of course impossible to say how many, but it will astonish everybody. The beauty of it is too, that this revolution has been effected, no by any uproarious proceedings, or hot canvassing, but by sensible, logical documents sent to their homes, where they could read them and study them. A conversion effected by such means as this, is sure and valuable. Atlanta will get a very fine vote, not only in Milledville, but in the counties around it."

THE OUTLOOK IN RICHMOND.

Some time ago, the general impression was that Richmond would go by an immense majority against Atlanta. There were very few Atlanta men to be found. A careful canvass of the county shows, according to a reliable citizen of that county, that Atlanta will carry very nearly, if not quite, half of the white vote of the county. The number of persons who have lately changed from Milledgeville is very great. The writer, while in Augusta, met several persons who had formerly been for Milledgeville and were now openly for Atlanta. It is pretty safe to say that Milledgeville will not get more than four out of seven of the white vote. Of course the negro vote is problematical. The friends of Milledgeville are making strenuous efforts to secure it, and may succeed in doing so. In my event, however, Atlanta might put the result of Richmond's vote without being beaten to a certainty, or by a large vote.

UNCLE JOHN MAUND'S ESTIMATE.

Mr. John Maund, of Talbot county, one of the wheel-horses in the state, thinks that Atlanta will whip the fight by over 30,000 votes. He is for Milledgeville himself, and of course is not prejudiced for Atlanta. He gives us only two votes in Talbot county, which we require an estimate utterly too low. He says that only 26 negroes have paid their taxes in Talbot, and that no more will be allowed to vote. We put great store by Uncle John's figures, but he has put them too low this time.

CAMPAIGN NOTES AND HUMORS.

—Gen. Gartrell put in some sturdy licks for Atlanta in Burke county while he was there at court.

—The race between Col. Cummings and Col. Foster in the Augusta senatorial district is very close.

—Mr. Hoke Smith returned on Friday from a long and active canvass of the 7th district. Mr. Smith met Mr. Furman three or four times, and Mr. Furman says he is, by odds, the strongest man he has yet met in the canvass.

—Furman went home on Friday night. He has done his level best on the capital question and has made a stubborn fight. It will not be his fault if Milledgeville is not victorious. He is certain that he is very hopeful of the result, and thinks Milledgeville will take a heavy vote in north Georgia. Turner is an over-sanguine young man.

—The Augusta Evening News says that Mr. John Conley will run for the legislature in Fulton county, hoping to win the prize through the division of the democratic vote, and the probable fusion of the negro vote.

THE PENSIVE PORKER.

A CHAPTER ON GEORGIA HOGS, WITH SOME REFLECTIONS AS TO COST OF HOME-MADE MEAT.

The Inconvenience of Distant Smoke Houses Two Hogs to Every Georgian—Successful Farming on Some Model Georgia Farms—People who Can Raise Pork at Six Cents a Pound Insist on Paying Fifteen Cents a Pound for It.

A few days ago the people of Swainsboro, Ga., were out of meat!

There was not a pound of bacon in any of the stores in the village. Many housekeepers were out of this useful staple, and had to do without it until the cars from the west came in. And the editor of the local paper, raising his voice plaintively from the depths of this essential famine, exclaimed: "It is awfully inconvenient, this keeping our smoke houses so far off!"

The farmers living around Swainsboro should raise more than enough meat to supply all the villages. And yet they do not raise a tithe of what they need for consumption upon their own farms. Few people know of the in Georgia since 1860. At that time there were 1,057,326 people in the state, and 2 036 116 hogs—or about two hogs for every man, woman and child. In 1870 the population was 1,184,109 and 988 506 hogs, or less than one to each person. At present the population is 1,564,240, and the number of hogs is 1,264,443, or one hog for every person in the state, and 200 hogs left over with which to regale the strangers that may happen within our gates.

THE HOG IS NOT A ROMANTIC ANIMAL,

but he is eminently practical. He has never figured in poetry, and probably never wanted to. He is surrounded by no tradition or mystery, or classic reputation; but is a plain, simple, honest fellow, toddling through the world on his merits, determined to "root or die," and fattening himself faithfully that epicures may rejoice. He appeals to no sentiment—awakens no emotions of heart or soul, but pipes direct from ham to chitterling—all through and through to the stomach. He never achieves fame or gets into history, except, like the swan at his death. From his sacrificial exit from this world arises a cloud of fragrant and savory memories, in which fatty bres, and backbone pies, and sausages and spareribs, and cold weather and warm cheer, are the features, and which are grouped under the expensive and expressive word of "hog-killing time."

And yet despite his humble origin, and his lowly life he is an important element in our lives.

Georgia pays ten million dollars a year for hog meat.

In ten years she has paid over one hundred million dollars for hog meat, which is just half of what every man's property in this state is worth.

Half of every piece of property in Georgia swamped in ten years in buying hog meat. Of this amount half of it—fifty millions in ten years, or five millions every year is for it is demonstrated beyond any sort of doubt that hogs can be raised in Georgia at half (or less than half) than they could be bought from the west. Hence, half (or less than half) of the ten million dollars spent annually for hog-meat is wasted, besides being sent out of the state.

Now, let us see how long it would be to remedy this wastage—to stop this enormous leak through which the state's essential worth is pouring.

There are 69 956 farms in Georgia. They average 410 acres each—many of them being subdivided and worked by tenants. Let us suppose that there were only three sows upon every farm. Each sow will average 10 pigs per annum. These three sows upon each farm would give us, therefore, in one year, 2 098 68) hogs, or nearly as many as is needed. This would stop the outflow of ten million dollars per annum, and would be nearly clear gain to Georgia; for there is scarcely a farm in Georgia upon which the slops from the kitchens, the grazing, the orchard droppings, the leavings in the potato patches, and the various odds and ends that now go to wastage, would not support these hogs in any event, an acre or two of chufas, or some other root crop, would give them enough.

THESE TEN MILLIONS OR DOLLARS

saved to Georgia every year, would enrich the state beyond any conception. It would give an impetus to every sort of enterprise—would ease the money market—would give the farmers ready money with which to improve their farms, and add to the comfort of their homes, and would, in three years, put Georgia beyond the reach of any state in the union.

There is no fancy thought in this. If each farmer in Georgia would start, the coming year, with three sows upon his farm, and would take care of them and their progeny until time to kill them, we should have a revival of affairs that would astonish the most sanguine. Let us look at the results that have been achieved upon some farms in Georgia.

HOW GEORGIA FARMERS RAISE PORK

Mr. W C Munroe, of Macon county, breeds Essex and Berkshire. He never feeds corn to his hogs. He leverages two pigs to the sow—kills them at 12 and 15 months, and they average 150 pounds weight, net pork. It costs him four cents a pound, or less than one-third of the cash price. Potatoes, he says, is the cheapest food for hogs.

Mr John Rogers, of Laurens county, raises Berkshire. He breeds fifteen pigs to the sow. He feeds no corn to his hogs. He kills at 18 months, gets 200 pounds of net pork to the pig, and it costs him five cents per pound. He fed one hog on the slops of the kitchen, and got 420 pounds of pork in return.

Dr. Groove, of Brooks county, breeds Berkshire on common stock, raises them on green crops, feeds corn for a month or two, raises fifteen pigs to the sow, gets one hundred and fifty pounds of net pork, killing at twelve months. It costs him six cents a pound.

Mr. Reuben Jones, of Baker county, breeds Berkshire on common stock, and raises fifteen pigs to the sow. He feeds on peas, groundnuts, &c., and kills at twelve months, getting one hundred pounds of net pork, which costs him five cents a pound. His hogs are penned habitually.

Dr. Lavender, of Pike county, has various crosses, gets ten pigs to the sow, and never feeds corn until two weeks before killing. He then feeds corn, collards, potatoes, turnips, etc. He kills at eight and eighteen months, and gets two hundred and twenty-five pounds of net pork which costs six cents per pound.

Mr Harris, of Isabella, breeds Chester and Guinea. He lets his hogs have the run of the fields, orchards, etc., and feeds on corn only for a few weeks before killing. He raises twelve pigs to the sow, and gets 250 pounds of pork at 18 months old. This costs him 2½ cents.

It will be seen from the above that the most of our farmers rely upon corn as feed for hogs, only for the week or two before killing when it is used to harden the flesh. The commissioner of agriculture, in a very useful work upon the subject, says:

A certain number of hogs can be raised on every southern farm, not only without cost, but with decided advantage to the farm. They consume the vile products, which would otherwise be entirely lost such as the products of the forests and of fields, pea fields, potato patches, orchards, etc, which no other animal will consume, besides destroying vast numbers of insects injurious to vegetation, and especially to fruit. Pigs in a peach orchard are almost necessary to success, since, with the fallen fruit, they destroy the larvæ which it contains, and thus protect fair crops.

that our people will take this matter in hand and invest as to certain profits there are to be found in hog-raising.

When Georgia has her own meat she will be great, and not before.

Ringing—Hang.

The Macon Telegraph and Messenger and the Savannah News are shouting themselves hoarse with the stale, disgusting and hypocritical cry of "hang, ring." The former, in a late issue, belches forth this slander against the good name and honor of Atlanta: "The Atlanta ring are circulating tens of thousands of appeals to the colored voters." * * * "These appeals are the tensible handiwork" of negro radical presses "who have induced the ring" to rage such a terrible battle against the "halls of the fathers." The News gives off daily strains of like sham. It says, the "combination" of the "Atlanta ring" with radicals is "formidable for securing the location of the capital in that city against the will of the people." From the mountains to the seaboard the enemies of Atlanta are fine with the cry of "Ring"—"The Atlanta ring."

Citizens of Atlanta—you who have stood so nobly for the right in the past, who do these slanderers of your city say to those this "Ring?" All your people—the good squire; your clergymen and Christian men—included in it. The city council, your bankers, merchants, all, included. The Governor of the state and other distinguished Georgians—Toombs, Stephens, Hill and other notables of our old commonwealth are said to be members of it. All these are charged with being in a "Ring" for the purpose of overthrowing the will of the people of Georgia."

The people of Atlanta are used to the senseless shout of "Ring." They do not realize the full force of the cry as it reaches the rural districts. They do not know, as the people do, that the insane cry of "Ring" sets honorable communities and men in an all of falsehood in the interest of prejudice. Under is the handmaid of prejudice, and falsehood does not blush to tarnish the fame and reputation of a people by the cry of "ring." In every hamlet and valley of Georgia enemies of your city—catching the sound of political tactics within your limits—echo the cry "ring," and dare its refutation. The fiendish age and slanderous heart pin faith to a falsehood, in order that infamy may be brought upon your people. The fair name of your people is reproached and tossed from lip to lip to serve its Pharisee of injury and political spite to your young enterprising city, despite its blameless official record and untarnished honor.

People of Georgia mark the men who would with slanderous breath, damn with infamy the youngest and bravest city in all our southern land. Rebuke the falsehood. The world see that persecution and slander cover put down good men, or a righteous cause even under the cry of "ring." CARTER VI

A WIFE BEATER HURT.

Trouble in the Patch Work Palace.

Yesterday Lewis Powell, a man at fifty years of age, who makes a living at digging, had a quarrel with his wife and got into such a passion that he commenced very severely. After he had struck her several blows his son-in-law, Bill Armstead, interfered and when resisted by Powell pushed him out of the door. He fell on the ground and his head struck a rock which inflicted a severe wound on his left temple. He was picked up by a policeman, and it was found that an artery had been severed, and the man was BLEEDING LIKE A HOG.

BEATING HER

He was taken to the station house where Dr J O Perkins was called to attend him. His wound was dressed, and at last ceased to bleed. It was not so dangerous as was at first supposed. He was sent back to his home in the afternoon quite weak from the loss of blood. We may state that Lewis Powell is the original of "Mortimer Pitts" in and the wife-beater Powell was kicked off the same verandah where the ideal "Mortimer" stood the picture of domestic felicity and human contentment.

It pains us deeply to learn that his rash act has destroyed the beautiful illusions of ideal happiness which the eloquence of the lecturer threw around his humble home. But it is said that irregularities will occur in the best regulated families, and Mortimer may be the victim of a fixed law of human conduct, and not of a violent and disgraceful fit of passion.

Card from Captain Fuller.

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 30, 1877.

Editors Constitution: By overzealous friends I have been appealed to, first, to run as an independent candidate for council from the first ward; secondly, (if I would not run myself) to support an independent ticket, as against the nominees. To these appeals and suggestions I must say, that having been defeated in the nomination, it becomes me to support the nominees as I agreed to abide by it. Those opposed to the nominees should have gone to the polls on the 5th instant; but since they are before us according to democratic usage I know of no reason why they should not have the support of the party. They certainly stand upon the same ground in relation to independents as nominees have heretofore. All things being considered equal, as between the merits of the candidates representing the two tickets I am inclined to think that the nominees have the greatest claims on the party.

—Very few city arrests up to midnight.

—Charlie Jackson, colored, was arrested yesterday on charge of larceny.

—McCager Green was arrested on suspicion, but was subsequently released by the arresting officer.

—The extreme cold of the past few days has rendered the life of a policeman anything but delightful, and yet the men have done their duty as well as they usually do, and that is "excellent well."

A STRAY STRAW.

THE TRUE STORY OF SOUTHERN FACTORIES.

Interviews With Our Leading Factory Men—Immense Profits Awaiting the Introduction of Capital.

Some time ago, Governor Straw, of New Hampshire, who

WAS EVIDENTLY FEELING HURT,

published an elaborate argument in the northern papers to prove that the manufacture of cotton could be carried on much cheaper and better in New England than in the south.

While perfectly certain that his premises were unfounded and his conclusions illogical, we did not have in Atlanta the experience with which to set his fine-spun theories at naught. Mr Goodnow, in a very sensible card, replied in a general way to his assertions, but no detailed reply could be formed.

In the Augusta paper of a late date we find, however, an absolute positive and specific overthrow of his position in toto and detail.

SUCH EXPERIENCED MANUFACTURERS

as Messrs. Cogin, of the Augusta factory, Hickman, of the Graniteville, and Sibley, of the Langley, have been interviewed by an enterprising person on the Chronicle, who elicits the following pleasant information.

Mr. Cogin is the first put upon the stand. He says:

Reporter—You have doubtless noticed, Mr Cogin, what has been said lately in regard to southern and northern manufactories.

Mr Cogin—Yes.

Reporter—What is your experience in regard to the relative advantages of the north and south for the location of cotton manufactories?

Mr Cogin—There is no question but that the south possesses vastly superior advantages in many ways. We have one of the best climates in the world. The atmosphere has just the proper humidity for manufacturing purposes. Now, at the north, the air becomes so dry that steam has to be introduced into the weaving room to dampen the atmosphere, so as to prevent the threads from breaking. We never have any such trouble as that here. Again, he mills often have to stop because the water courses are frozen up. This never happens at the south, and we can therefore run uninterruptedly. We can get a plenty of excellent white labor. In fact, it is much better than that which the northern mills now have. It is equal to the "yankee" labor the northern mills used to have but which they don't get now. We can make more yards of cloth per loom than they can, running the same number of hours as they do, and we can, therefore, afford to sell it cheaper. Our water power is plentiful, and cheaper on the average than at the north. They can't begin to compete with us where they have to use steam. I costs less than six dollars per horse power here for water, while at Fall river, where steam is used, the cost is $12 per horse power. It wouldn't pay the Augusta factory, for instance, to use steam instead of water, if all the necessary fuel was put down at the factory free. The operatives in the Augusta factory work eleven hours a day. There is a superabundance of white labor here and we never have had a machine stopped for the want of help during the nineteen years I have been with the Augusta factory. If we were to start a mill of the same size of ours to-day, we would have sufficient skilled labor in two weeks to run it.

MR. HICKMAN ON THE SUBJECT.

In all the country, north or south, there has been no more successful enterprise than the Graniteville factory under the management of Mr. H H. Hickman, as president. Mr. Hickman is a close observer and a shrewd business man and he never speaks unless he has facts and figures before him upon which to base his assertions. What he has to say, therefore, must necessarily have much weight.

In reference to cotton manufactories, Mr Hickman said there could be no comparison between the north and the south. The south will eventually drive the north out of the market in brown goods, standard sheetings and shirtings. It is practically doing it now. The north is building no new mills for the manufacture of these goods. When northern mills were compelled to sell their goods at cost he could sell at a fair profit. He had no commissions to pay agents to buy cotton as northern mills did, because he bought it himself, more than half of it right at the mill. Getting the cotton right here, he had, of course, no freight to pay, as was the case with northern mills, and he was satisfied that he could buy cotton to a better advantage than the agents of those mills; in fact he was assured that he made a half a cent a pound in this way. He could get plenty of white labor and cheaper than northern mills could. His operatives could live for one-half the expense of those at the north. The latter used four times as much fuel, at twice the price per cord, while provisions were as cheap here as in Massachusetts. To sum up, then: first, labor is cheaper; second, the operatives can live cheaper; third, he has no commissions to pay for buying cotton; fourth, he has no freight to pay on cotton; fifth, the larger proportion of goods are sold without paying commissions, and sixth, he can run his mill all the year. The Graniteville mill has not stopped work two weeks in eleven years on account of water or weather. He finds sale for eighty per cent. of his products at home. He has sold sixty thousand dollars' worth of goods to Knoxville, alone, in one year. He will build the new mill at Vaucluse with the surplus of the Graniteville company, without calling on the stockholders for a dollar, and he will be able to run it at three-fourth of the expense in proportion to its size, that it costs to run Graniteville, because it will be a modern mill, with all the most recent improvements. Graniteville is one of the most difficult mills in the country to run, because it has been pieced from time to time, and yet people can see how successful that has been. It costs less to build a mill now than ever before. Labor and material is cheaper. He gets lumber at Vaucluse at six dollars and a half a thousand feet and bricks at eight dollars and a quarter a thousand.

MR. SIBLEY'S STATEMENT.

Mr W C Sibley, the energetic and able president of the Langley Mills, who has conducted the affairs of that company with so much vigor, in an article in the Chronicle and Constitutionalist last Wednesday, said that the mills in this vicinity had sold, within the last three years, some five thousand bales of goods, that were delivered in New York for export to England and the continent of Europe, Africa and South America, and the United States have awarded the contract for sheeting needed for the Indian market out in New York and the goods delivered here, thus competing successfully with goods made in New England. In regard to the labor he says: "As to the labor. I have been president of the Langley manufacturing company of South Carolina, since its organization in 1870, and have had no difficulty in getting as good possible white labor as there is in New England, and who cheerfully work eleven hours a day, and could obtain more if we had any room for them, and many of them are southern people who had learned their trade in our own mills.

"I believe every mill in New England to-day is making a great production of goods per loom and per spindle (on the same style of goods) at a cheaper cost of manufacturing. He can say by saying that the south has the best climate for manufacturing, the water power, the women and women necessary to successful manufacturing. She lacks the capital but in this she has competed successfully with New England in the manufacture of cotton sheetings, shirtings and drills, both for home and foreign trade.

The Constitution.

ATLANTA,

SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2, 1877

BUTLER AND EUSTIS.

After a remarkable struggle the senate has grudgingly conceded the constitutional right of representation to another state. The fight began a week ago last Wednesday and continued almost without interruption up to yesterday, when Conover and Patterson compromised with their party by voting first for Kellogg and then for Gen Butler. The republicans, including Stanley Matthews and Judge Christiancy, voted solidly for Corbin, Butler's opponent, although the issues were strictly legal, the facts being undisputed. The cry of "kuklux" was raised against Gen. Butler, and the republican senators consider such a cry as something above all statute law. The votes of the carpetbaggers turned the scale. Judge Davis did not vote. He would probably have preferred to reject both contestants, as the election of either was full of irregularities. The legislature being in session a new man could have been elected without much delay. This was understood to be Judge Davis' position. If it had been adopted it would doubtless have resulted in the speedy seating of General Butler.

This action of the senate not only gives South Carolina an efficient representative in the upper chamber, but it goes far towards settling a question of representation that the radicals have shamelessly kept open on account of the exigencies of their majority in the senate. That body is now composed of thirty-five democrats, thirty-nine republicans, and Judge Davis. Conover, Patterson and Judge Davis are "the balance of power;" but the two first will undoubtedly act as a rule with their party.

The only vacancy is Louisiana's. Mr. Eustis presents regular credentials, and there is no contestant. The legislature and the governor have performed their duty. Both parties have recognized the legislature that elected him. It was the only undisputed legislature that the state had from 1872 to April 1877. His case is the clearest and strongest of the three democratic claimants. The senate rejected Pinchback, thereby creating a vacancy, which the only legislature that the state possessed proceeded to fill with Mr. Eustis. The seat is not claimed by any other person, and yet the shameless republican majority reinforced by Kellogg have thus far refuse to either declare the seat that Mr. Eustis claims vacant or to admit the claimant. This is the height of radical infamy. Louisiana has only half a voice in the senate, counting Kellogg; she is really unrepresented. Mr. Eustis cannot, however, be decently kept out of his seat another week. We must then wait for the exit of the five carpet baggers whom the radicals have placed in the senate chamber in the name of insulted but patient states. The end approaches.

"A MAN gets tired," says the Louisville Evening News, "of being cheated every time he goes to market, because of the absurd custom of selling nothing for less than for five cents, even though its value be but a penny. Give the people pennies and there will be penny articles at once in the markets, in the fruit stands, in the dry goods stores; and men and women who toil early and late for the pittance that shall keep them alive will have an opportunity to buy what they wish and pay just what it is worth, instead of paying four cents more, as an absurd custom makes them do to-day." Every word of which we indorse.

At Milledgeville the state owns a building which, with an expenditure of $10 000, is ample for all the requirements of a seat of government.—Eastman Times.

Twenty years ago, Governor Johnson and a legislative committee, who had examined fully into the subject, and knew all about the old capitol from experience, advanced the opinion that it would require fully one hundred thousand dollars to make the building fit for the purposes for which it was intended. No addition has been made to it since that day. But then the Eastman Times ought to know. Did the editor ever see a capitol?

GEORGIA is preparing to fall into line by substituting biennial for annual sessions of the legislature. Twenty-four out of the thirty-eight states have adopted the biennial plan—Minnesota being the latest addition to the number. Her senators will hold office four years, and her representatives two, and the grangers of that prosperous wheat-growing state expect to save $100,000 every two years by the change.

If the house should decide that the speaker can perfect a committee by appointing a chairman, it is understood in Washington that he will make Mr. Stephens chairman of the Pacific railroad committee. The distinguished representative from the eighth district is in favor of giving Tom Scott a heavy subsidy. If Georgia were polled tomorrow the vote against any further subsides to Pacific railroads would be overwhelming.

COURTLANDT PARKER, the great New Jersey lawyer, like our own Governor Colquitt, fills a pulpit nearly every Sunday. He is said to be as good a preacher as he is a lawyer.

THE BONDS OF SAVANNAH.

In the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist of yesterday we find the following editorial paragraph:

From all we can gather, the city of Savannah is indisposed to deal with her bonded creditors as becomes her and according to their desert. The bonds of the city were taken and paid for in good faith. They should be redeemed in the same manner. We believe, and have elsewhere suggested that this can be done without extraordinary sacrifices. At all events, the city of Savannah should submit to any reasonable sacrifice rather than suffer the taint of repudiation, which will hang like an incubus over her future career and cost her much more, in the long run, than she could possibly save by paltering with her honor. We trust that her people will rouse themselves in this matter and meet the issue honorably. It would be disgraceful that the chief seaport of Georgia should go into voluntary bankruptcy, especially when such a calamity could be avoided by proper methods of relief.

What new developments have come to the knowledge of our Augusta contemporary that should impel it to intimate that Savannah "is indisposed to deal with her bonded creditors as becomes her," we do not know. If Savannah has altered or amended the terms of her proposition made to the holders of her bonds the fact has either not been made public, or it has escaped our observation. That proposit on was, taking all the circumstances into consideration, a just and equitable one. It provided, if we remember the terms correctly, for the payment of rates of graded interest, based upon Savannah's present financial condition, as well as upon her prospective ability. These terms were the result of the most careful estimates, and presented a solution of the difficulty about as equitable and as fair as any adjustment could be made. The statement of the authorities of Savannah with respect to the crippled financial condition of the city was without any reservation whatever, and they gave the bondholders to understand that any attempt to force matters would be disastrous alike to the corporation and the holders of the bonds. There was no hint of repudiation, and we do not believe that the city is animated by any other feeling than a desire to meet her obligations in their entirety in the shortest possible time; and if these obligations are not met, fully and faithfully, it will be because Savannah is pushed to the wall by her creditors, an event which for they will have only themselves to thank for any losses that may ensue. Untoward circumstances have made a temporary compromise necessary, but we venture that the creditors of the city will lose nothing by the timely exercise of the leniency suggested by the prudence and forethought of self-interest.

AN UNEVENTFUL WEEK.

No important change in the position of the eastern armies occurred during the past week. Erzeroum has not fallen, and the situation in the heart of Armenia is not accurately known. At last accounts, General Heymann was conducting regular seige operations on the east side of Erzeroum, and General Tergukasoff on the south side. Their forces numbered about 25,000 men. They had cut the road to Batoum. General Melikoff with perhaps 20,000 men from Kars must have come up by this time, making a force for investment purposes of about 50,000 men. Why so large a force has not taken Erzeroum, thus securing snug shelter for themselves from the cutting winds of the elevated plains, is one of the mysteries of the past week. The snow in the hills and mountain passes around Erzeroum is said to be three feet deep, and the victorious Russians will not be apt to stay outside of Armenia's comfortable capital this winter. The fortifications of the city consist of a citadel and four suburbs, but they have never been considered capable of a stubborn resistance. We do not believe the Russians have suspended operations in that quarter for the purpose of going into winter quarters, although Mukhtar so telegraphs. If to the capture of the Aladja Dagh, the escalade at Kars, and the brilliant night movement at Deve-Boyun, should be added the capture of Erzeroum, the Grand Duke Michael could well afford to rest until spring.

In Bulgaria the capture of Etropal by the Russians was the chief event of the past week. This town is about fifty miles northeast of Sofia, at the foot of the Etropol Balkans, on a branch of the Iskra river, which flows north into the Danube. The occupation of this town renders any effort by Chevket and Mehemet Ali for the relief of Plevna almost impossible. The Turkish power of resistance north of the Balkans is in fact practically ended. Suleiman did attack the czarevitch's line during the week, but he was repulsed. What is going on within Plevna or just about it is a matter more or less of conjecture. Its fall is simply a matter of rations, and the delay in no wise interferes with the aggressive movements of the Russians. The evacuation of Orchanie alone shows that the Turks have no means of relieving the beseiged army.

A strong column is said to be forming for a new invasion of Roumelia. To meet it the Turks are trying to organize an army of fifty thousand men at Adrianople. Rouf Pasha assumes the task of organizing the new levies. This movement of the Turks is not regarded of much importance. They are now regarded as a whipped people, and the terms of peace are everywhere the subject of consideration—not the fate of the campaign, but the terms that Russia will accept.

Russia and Turkey are about to negotiate directly. The conquering power will certainly demand the free passage of the straits that form the outlet of the Black sea. She intends at sometime to control them. She will demand the annexation of Kars and of the mountain fastnesses of Armenia, which she has conquered three different times. She will demand the practical independence at least of all the provinces north of the Balkans, together with Herzegovina, and perhaps a part of Albania. But peace is on everybody's tongue in spite of the extent of these demands of Russia. It is discounted in the markets, and almost assumed in political circles as a fact. Negotiations will doubtless begin this week, if they are not already well advanced.

MR. MILLS, of Texas, has introduced a just bill in relation to past war claims,—so just that it stands no chance of passing the senate. It provides for the payment of all debts contracted by officers or agents of the United States government in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, and Arkansas, for supplies furnished the army, or for rent and occupation of real estate since June 30, 1865, upon full proof of the justness of the same by the parties holding such indebtedness. It declares the war of the rebellion to have ended prior to June 30, 1865, and that from and after said day all claims of citizens of the United States against the government stand on terms of perfect equality. It is made the duty of the quartermaster general to submit to congress as soon as possible an estimate of the amount of money that will be required to pay the indebtedness provided for in the bill.

THE SENTIMENT OF THE CAPITAL CAMPAIGN.

Lest our excellent friend, the reader should mistake the portent sought to be conveyed by the caption with which we have prefixed this article, it may be well to remark at the outset that it is not controversial. The day is Sunday, and we are in no humor for polemics. The mood that impels us to correct our adversaries as to errors of fact, and to lead them quietly but firmly into the straight and narrow pathway of logic, is not upon us. The desire to parry or give an argumentative thrust has been sated, and the rhetorical scalping knife has been laid away. It is therefore with no design of inveigling the reader into becoming the unwilling spectator of a bloodless, but wordy brawl over a question of politics or economy that we invite him to tarry and crack with us a boiled chestnut or two. No. Our mood is a seasonable one—philosophical and reflective, as it is meet it should be of a Sunday.

—Have you ever considered to what curious uses the poetry of sentiment has been put in this capital campaign? (Mind! we are not arguing; we are merely philosophising.) If you have not, then it is worth your while to study the subject. It is a subject well worthy your deliberations. It will repay you to sit here—(another of those chestnuts won't hurt you)—and dissect it with us. Sentiment has its origin in the purest and holiest feelings of the human heart.

It is instinctive, and therefore, within its own limits, always unerring. It is the basis of everything that is good, and beautiful, and true in the thoughts of man. It is the result neither of education nor of opinion. Without it no human institution would long survive. To be told, therefore, that sentiment demands the removal of the capital—(just help yourself to the chestnuts)—back to Milledgeville is to be confronted by a very startling proposition—a proposition worth looking into even on a Sunday. In this instance the sentiment is supposed to be one of reverence—respect—veneration. The old capital constitutes "the halls of our fathers," as they are so aptly characterized by our friends who write on the other side. They are venerable halls, and have echoed to the voices of Georgia's greatest men. As a memorial of the past—a reminder of the daring souls who led the state to the threshold of her present greatness—they are worthy of all veneration, and the sentiment that suggests such a feeling should be carefully and continuously nurtured. But when sentiment has given birth to respect and veneration for the past, her mission, in this instance, ends. (Don't be afraid of the chestnuts.) The sentiment that impels you to revisit the house in which you were born and invites you to linger around the places familiar to your youth does not suggest that you take up your abode there. If the suggestion is pressed upon you at all, utility is the practical maiden that does the wooing. Of that you may be sure. When sentiment prompts you to feel a sort of affection for the quaint old gig that once transported your grandfather from place to place, in the primitive days when even a quaint old gig was a luxurious and costly vehicle, you may be sure that she will never outrage common sense by even hinting that out of respect to your lamented ancestor you should raffle off your phaeton and your span of bays, and utilize the vehicle which the march of progress has made clumsy, and awkward, and uncomfortable. It is gratifying to you sometimes to ransack the old oaken chest that has come to you as an heirloom, and look at the antique dresses your grandmother wore, and which well became the dignity and gentleness of her kindly presence; but it would not be a pleasant sight to see your wife wearing them. Sentiment suggests nothing that is incongruous.

Perhaps (if you have not been too busy with these chestnuts—which are really harmless) you have already perceived the drift of our reflections. These things—the house in which you were born, the toys that amused the idle fingers of your babyhood, the gig of your grandfather, the dresses of your grandmother — are relics, and the fact that they are so constitutes the sentiment with which you regard them. So with the old capitol. It is a relic. The very name applied to it by those who spread the net of sentiment, so-called, to catch votes, is an admission of the correctness of the conclusions to which our desultory remarks (and the boiled chestnuts) have brought you. "The halls of our fathers"—not our halls; the venerable reliquaries of a day that is past; memorials of one period of Georgia's greatness.

KELLOGG SEATED.

The senatorial discussions of Kellogg's claims to a seat in the senate have revived a subject that should have been settled immediately after the inauguration of Mr. Hayes. At the risk of repeating what the people of this country have had thrust upon them a thousand times, let us present in a few sentences the cases of the two contestants.

Kellogg claims that he would have been elected by a lawful legislature "if an overwhelming array of armed and organised military force" had not destroyed it before it could bud and blossom. This is his claim as presented by a majority of the committee on privileges and elections. It is not pretended that the Packard "legislature" had a quorum—that it was in any sense a legislature. Elected by a "legislature" that never existed, and that soon vanished from sight, and bearing the certificate of Packard, who was never a governor of the state, this man Kellogg has been seated by the rump of the republican party in the agony of dissolution. It seals its fate.

Judge Spofford would have proven, if the senate had given him a chance, that the only object which the "Packard legislature" had in assembling at all was to foist Kellogg upon Louisiana as a senator—that the "legislature" was created by the returning board for that purpose, and that Kellogg himself was one of the chief parties to the conspiracy. The Nicholls legislature was at the time of the election of Judge Spofford and is now the only legal legislature of the state, and Gov. Nicholls was then and is now the only governor that the state knows. Judge Spofford's credentials are regular, and his admission is demanded by the known will of the state. His rejection is a barefaced partizan outrage on the rights of his state and an insult to its dignity.

The republican senators were of course equal to the task of seating even Kellogg, the vilest as well as the last of his tribe. They have seated him, but they cannot keep him in a senatorial seat for six years. As soon as the senate meets after the fourth of March, 1879, Kellogg's term will be summarily ended. He will doubtless be kicked out on the record as it exists. No witnesses will be needed. We can stand fifteen months of Kellogg when we can see an end of him and of carpet-baggery throughout the country. At the end of that length of time, Dorsey, Spencer, Kellogg, Patterson and Conover will retire, and one of the crookedest chapters in our history will be forever closed.

WHAT! The civil rights bill abrogated in New York, and the Times does not rise up to protest!! Even so. Only a few days ago a negro was denied admission to the medical lectures at Bellvue hospital, and negro babies have been excluded from New York's great baby show. And yet the Times is silent.

SECRETARY MCCRARY has yielded to the pressure of the organs on the subject of stating the battles of the civil war in the army register. He has an "afterthought," in the shape of a new plan for stating them. That plan is being prepared by Gen. Sherman. Too little backbone, Mr. Secretary, will be the verdict.

THE war upon the Pacific railroad swindles has at last begun. Both houses of congress have adopted Senator Chaffee's resolution, which is intended to make the Union Pacific prorate without discrimination with the Kansas Pacific. The big swindle should be pushed on other lines until it pays the people every cent that it took from their pockets.

THE resignation of J. J. Wright, the colored associate justice of the South Carolina supreme court, places all branches of the state government in democratic hands. The reconstruction of honest rule is now complete.

IF MR HILLIARD'S nomination should be rejected, or fail from the want of action by the senate, the Nashville American thinks it is probable that George B. Hodge, of Newport, Kentucky, will be nominated. Who is Hodge?

IN GENERAL.

—Senator Sharon will neither fish nor cut bait.

—Fat is closing around the awful Gambetta.

—And Sharon only four thousand miles away.

—Senator Blaine was able to ride out on Monday.

—England imitates Germany; America imitates England.

—Hendricks has struck the bed rock at last; he is lecturing.

—An Ohio man recently committed suicide so as to avoid a nomination for office.

—The report of the second auditor of Virginia fixes the state debt at $41,220,752.

—The New York Sun says President Hayes has purchased ten acres of land from W. W. Phelps, on the Hudson Palisades, for $13,000.

—The oldest New England congressman is Mr. Wait, of Connecticut; he is sixty-six. The youngest is Mr. Powers, of Maine, his years being thirty-nine.

—Only five female treasury clerks have thus far succeeded in marrying congressmen. The rest must stub along till a change of administration.

—The Standard oil company will erect a cooper shop in Pittsburgh, where seven thousand barrels will be made daily. Oil from the refinery will be conducted to the premises in pipes and barrels.

—A Texas congressman has hit upon the brilliant idea of reducing the expenses of defending the southern frontier by building a railroad at the cost of twenty thousand dollars a mile.

—Mr. John McCullough, the actor, who has been calling upon the president, says that Mr. Hayes has a remarkably thorough acquaintance with the works of Shakespeare.

—Mr. Henderson, Lydia Thompson's husband, after a vain attempt to run the Queen's theatre, London, successfully, has abandoned it in disgust. His loss is said to be heavy.

—The White House grounds are submerged by the recent flood, and such a thing was never known to occur during Grant's administration. No water about there then.

—The failure of Mr. Jefferson's engagement at Booth's theatre is one of the strangest of recent theatrical events. He was engaged by Mr. Daly for twelve weeks, but will close next Saturday evening, at the end of his fifth week.

—Mr. Spofford, the congressional librarian, has been seeking for a long time for a complete set of "Peter Parley's Tales" for the library of congress. Strange as the circumstance may appear, the search has thus far brought to light no one who has kept together the stories of one of the best known of American authors.

—The difficulty under the tenure of office act, in the appointment of Waldron as marshal of west Tennessee, during the recess of the senate, has been removed by the designation of Waldron as marshal by Justice Swayne, of the supreme court. It is now expected he will be confirmed.

—Smalls, M. C., will answer hereafter to the roll-call of the penitentiary of South Carolina, not to that of the house of representatives of the United States of America. But in his affliction he will have the consolation of knowing that his pay continues, for as he is a "martyr" in the eyes of his republican associates of the house, he will not be expelled as a felon.

—It is noticed as an odd coincidence that in 1875 Albany, Broome, Columbia, Essex, Herkimer, Kings, Montgomery, Ontario, Otsego, Putnam, Schoharie, Schuyler, Suffolk, Tioga and Wayne counties of New York gave Seward (rep.) for secretary of state 96,428 votes. The same counties now give Churchill (rep.) 96,432 votes—a difference of only four votes.

—There are said to be two beautiful girls engaged in the barber's business in Detroit. Of course a good deal of domestic anxiety is the result. All the bald-headed old rascals who always take the front seats in the pit at the ballet are having themselves shaved to death, weeping secretly, but bitterly, all the while that they have no hair to shampoo. What a ridiculous old world this is—the bald-headed part of it especially.—Louisville Courier Journal.

—The Russian government treats temperance and teetotal leagues as illegal secret societies. This is because the revenue is so largely increased by liquor duties, whereby $160,000,000 are annually added to the imperial exchequer. Policemen and soldiers are instructed to fill teetotalers into drinking. The clergy was ordered to preach against the new rebellion. Publications on the immortality of the liquor traffic are vetoed. A Polish schoolmaster was recently put to sweeping the streets in a convict gang for denouncing liquor selling.

—The cat show in Philadelphia promises well. "Benny Huckle," the champion cat of New Jersey, is a fine specimen of the Maltese breed, weighing sixteen pounds, and preferring mutton-chops to rats. "Tiger Dan," who weighs 15 pounds, and is twelve years old, and "Taylor," a fine "ringfall," are also entered for the first prize—a lady's gold watch set with diamonds. The nomenclature of the show shows that "Tom" is still a favorite title for cats of high and low degree.

—America, says the London World, has sent a representative to the shires this season in the person of Mr. James Gordon Bennett, the proprietor of the New York Herald, whose pre-eminency in his own country as commodore of the New York Yacht club, polo player and amateur coachman, is well known. Mr. Bennett has taken a capital hunting box at Melton, where his hospitality is presided over by his sister; has a stud of twenty-two of the best hunters that money can buy, and will soon make his mark among the fliers of the Belvoir and the Quorn.

—The New York Sun's objection to the organization of our army is that it is all head. It is all officers. On the 15th of October last the number of enlisted men in the cavalry, artillery and infantry, (exclusive of hospital stewards, clerks, general service men, and other unavailables,) was 18,427. The huge head of this tail consisted of 2,151 commissioned officers. There were nine and seven-tenths of a man to each officer. The staff numbered 583, as large as that attached to the immense army Russia now has in the field.

—Among the many industries of Japan is the manufacture of bedlime. It is, of course, principally employed for the snaring of birds and animals. By its means animals as large as monkeys are caught. When once they get the sulphur on their paws they soon cover themselves with it, and so exhaust themselves in trying to get rid of it that they fall an easy prey. Birds also as large as ducks and every variety of smaller ones are taken by it. Rats are easily caught by spreading a small quantity on a piece of board or paper, and placing it near their holes. It is spread upon a bamboo leaf, and used during the summer for catching flies or other insects. Flies traps are made for its service, and occasionally used by the Japanese in bed. Birdlime is also used by the Japanese for medicinal purposes, and is considered one of the best cures for wounds. Japan is the only country where it is regularly manufactured on a large scale, the principal tree from which it is made being a dark evergreen from the mountains in the south.

—The Calverts, of Riverdale, in Maryland, are all departed, and a sale of the relics of the old Manor house has just taken place by order of the orphan's court. Among these relics were the old chair and desk which Henry Clay used in writing the Missouri compromise—these were sold for $19. Only $1 was paid for a well-worn shoe of Washington, and $2 bought a pair once worn by Clay. An easy chair used by Clay during his last illness brought $16. Clay was a warm friend of the late Charles B. Calvert, and in the old Manor is a room called "Henry Clay's room," which has been until now kept in all respects as it was when Clay last left it.

POLITICAL COMMENT

—Wife-beaters, children-beaters, unmitigated ruffians of all sorts, should taste the corrective influences of the whipping-post.—St. Louis Republican, dem.

—Slavery is gone, and with it the power of fanaticism. The reign of the people now begins—the people of the west and the south.—Richmond Dispatch, dem.

—Whatever may be the immediate result of the senatorial battle the republican party will be in the condition of a ship which has been dashed against the shore and broken to pieces.—New York Herald, ind.

—Hampton president, Jeff Davis minister to England, southern soldiers added to the pension rolls, or the union soldiers stricken from the lists, tax on cotton refunded, repudiation of the national debt, or the confederate debt included, these are a few of the inviting prospects of a solid south.—Chicago Inter Ocean, rep.

—In the recent debates in the house of representatives upon the repeal of the resumption act, Mr. Bell, of Georgia, made a telling speech in which he advocated the repeal of the bill and exhibited a thorough knowledge of the entire subject. His speech will be read by all of the working classes throughout the country.—Washington Press, ind.

—Among the many things to be thankful for to-day is the exposure of Patterson's treachery and the transfer of that individual from the republican to the democratic party. Senator Thurman will certainly eat his turkey with more relish since he has been able to hug the South Carolina carpet-bagger.—Cincinnati Gazette, rep.

—If we could have, for a moment, the ear of that distinguished immigrant from Wales, the Hon. Fluellen Jones of Nevada, we would suggest to him that the expression "That d—d Dutch tramp," as applied to the honorable secretary of the interior, does not sound well as coming from him. Gentlemen of foreign birth and extensive travels should not allude to each other in that manner.—Boston Herald, ind.

—Patterson has been indicted for grave crimes, and the authorities of South Carolina owe it to their dignity and self-respect to carry out the prosecutions to the bitter end. They cannot afford to condone bribery. They may be anxious to see Butler in his seat in the senate, to which they fair-ly elected him, and to which he is justly entitled, but they must not purchase this seat by turning loose an indicted rascal. "He that is kind to the wicked is cruel to the good," and any kindness to Patterson would be cruelty to the good people of South Carolina, and make law and justice mockery.—Memphis Appeal, dem.

—If Mr. Tilden hopes to capture the nomination in 1880 he is a strange sort of person. At present he seems to be about the only man in his party who is in favor of the exploit. The south is openly seeking an alliance with the west on financial and other questions, and the west returns the advances with delight. The cry is for a western and southern combination ticket, with the quarter to eastern bondholders and anti subsidy advocates. Mr. Hendricks sees this and has put his tongue in close quarters. He says over and over to himself now and then, "Hendricks and Hampton," but nobody knows it from his beaming smile that he likes the names have an uncommonly persuasive sound.—New York Tribune, rep.

—If there is any crime the punishment of which is justifiably dilated at the whipping post, it is wife-beating; and one cannot but feel a sensation of rejoicing that this class of brutes in Nevada are to have their offences punished by a lash-of-nine-tails. In Austin, Nev., the sheriff has been instructed to erect a post in a conspicuous place near the court house in accordance with the provision in section 1 of the act of the legislature of the state of Nevada, entitled "act to prevent cruelty to women. The mind of the western legislature seems to be wonderfully exacting at last, for another act provides a like punishment for "husband beaters," and the use of the family poker and the business end of the family broom have appreciably diminished. Both the sexes and the women know just where they stand, and evidently have no desire to be exhibited at the public post. A wholesome fear of public opinion doth make cowards of us all!—Pittsburgh Telegraph, ind.

ROUNDABOUT IN GEORGIA.

—We received a copy of the Eastman Times yesterday.

—The season of war maps of Milledgeville will soon be over.

—Captain Waller, of the Savannah News, doesn't seem to be contributing much to the capital discussion.

—Sam Jemison, of Macon, wants the capital removed to New Orleans.

—Willie Moore, of the Augusta News, is in favor of putting stoves on every street corner.

—Major Asa Winn, of Savannah, mistrusts that the capital campaign has been an envenomed one.

—The indications now are that General Gordon will be re-elected to the senate without opposition.

—The average Georgia cotton gin is exceedingly ferocious this year.

—A little son of Mr. Joseph Culpepper, of Houston county, fell into a kettle of boiling syrup recently and was seriously burned.

—St Hawkins, of the Covington Enterprise, has a ten pound sweet potato in his editorial embrace.

—Mr. J. C. White, of Pike county, killed a Mr. McCrory in Crawford county recently, in self-defense.

—Colonel Jones, of the Macon Telegraph, has never adequately denied the statement that Colonel Tom Hardeman is from Canada, and that Mayor Huff is from an adjoining country.

—Judge W. H. Edwards, formerly the ordinary of Elbert county, is dead.

—Two Columbus policemen named Hackney and Jackson engaged in a shooting affray last Friday.

—Rome wants a foot-bridge over the Etowah.

—The Rome Tribune says that a wagoner from Ellijay, Georgia, who was on his way to that city, was robbed night before last, of one hundred and fifty dollars belonging to Mr. Bishop, a merchant of Ellijay, which he was sending to merchants here. The wagoner, whose name it did not learn, says three men armed with pistols, came to his camp and made him deliver up the money. The editor judges from the facts detailed, that the robbers must have come from the neighborhood of Ellijay, as it is not likely any such attack would have been made unless it was known he had money.

—The same paper says that Mr. M. A. Wimpee, of Floyd county, will be sixty years old the 20th of June next. He has been married twice, had 16 children by his first wife, 11 boys and 5 girls, and 7 boys and 7 girls by his last wife, 30 in all, the oldest being 42 years old and the youngest at the breast. He lost 7 sons in the late war. Mr Wimpee is a hard-working man, a good citizen, and is doing a good part by all his children. All are loved and respected by those who know them The old gentleman is a stout and able bodied man, in good health, and is as hard as a light-wood knot, and bids fair to live many years longer.

—The News says that there is a negro woman in Franklin who has not a hair on her head. She says that some years ago she had the finest head of hair of any colored woman in this country. It was so beautiful that it commanded the admiration of all the sterner sex, while the colored damsels looked upon its glossy locks. She prided herself on her hair, and would comb it every Sunday morning till the kinks were set in order, but the more she combed the greater grew the rage of her colored sisters. At length some one put a "spell" on her, and she lost all her treasured hair. She says she could feel something crawling between the skin and skull, and it crawled and crawled till it loosened all her hair, and it fell out, and she has never been able to make it grow out again. She is nearly eighty-three years old now, and her head is as smooth as a peeled onion. She swears if ever she finds out the negro wench that "tricked" her she will kill her on the spot, if she is hung for it the next minute. We feel sorry for the old woman, but can offer but one consolation—she will never have a gray hair on her head.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC

NEW YORK, October 1st, 18

I have devoted twenty years of patient study to the Liver and its relations to the human body, in search of a remedy which would restore it, when diseased, to its normal condition. The result of that labor has been the production of

TUTT'S LIVER PILLS.

Their popularity has become so extended and the demand so great as to induce unscrupulous parties to counterfeit them, thereby ROBBING ME of the reward, and the afflicted of their virtues

TO CAUTION THE PUBLIC.

And protect them from vile impositions, I have adopted a new label, which bears my trade-mark and notice of its entry in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, also my signature, thus:

Dr. Tutt M. D.

☞To COUNTERFEIT THIS IS FORGERY.☜
Before purchasing, examine the label closely exert a peculiar influence on the system. Their action is prompt, and their good effects are felt in a few hours. A quarter of a century of study of the Liver has enabled us to adapt it to more greater influence over the system than any other organ of the body, and when diseased the entire organism is deranged. It is specially for the healing of the vital organ that I have spent so many years of toil, and having found the remedy, which has proved the greatest boon ever furnished the afflicted, shall they be deprived of its benefits, and a vile imitation imposed upon them?

THE GENUINE TUTT'S PILLS

LET THE HONEST PEOPLE OF AMERICA SEE TO IT THAT THEY ARE NOT DEFRAUDED. Scrutinize the label closely, see that it be in all the marks above mentioned, and buy the medicine only from respectable dealers. It can be found everywhere. Very respectfully,

W. H. TUTT.

Beautiful Peachtree St. Lot 100x300.

I WILL offer for a few days, at private sale, the most handsome lot on Peachtree street, 100x300 with alley, immediately north of Judge Lochrane's new mansion. The lot fronts east Street cars, gas and water mains. Has on it forest shade trees and a well of water equal to any on "Habersham". The lot will be sold with or without a four room house on it. Judge Trippe having bought the Campbell lot leaves Judge Lochrane's lot now offered the handsomest one in the city. If not sold at private sale in a few days, it will be sold at auction.

Important to Parents and Guardians

MOUNT DE CHANTAL
Academy of the Visitation
NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.

PARENTS in quest of a first class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of the celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours. The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this institution have been a subject of surprise to thy native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made the Academy almost a national one. One feature, in particular, that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised by them in pupils to views and habits of economy and to render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.

The terms, limited by the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition ($200 per annum) will be strictly secure to the school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.

For further particulars apply for a prospectus to the Directress of Mount de Chantal Academy of the Visitation, near Wheeling, West Virginia. Refer to John H. Flynn, W. S. Thomson and General W. S. Walker

"Maud Muller."

Miss Genevieve Rogers will appear in Atlanta on the nights of the 14th and 15th in her famous role of "Maud Muller," in which she has won such extensive reputation.

Miss Genevieve Rogers was born in Louisville, Ky., April 9 1859, and is therefore not nineteen years of age, a fact few who saw her in the second act of "Maud Muller" will readily believe. She made her first appearance as a "star" in April, 1875, under the management of Mr Frank E. Aiken, the well known actor and manager. Her career was one of continued triumphs. In the southwest wherever she has appeared she has won the admiration of her audiences and the good will of her managers.

She is compared in her style of acting to sprightly little Lotta and has the advantage of personal beauty which that little star does not possess to a remarkable degree Of the play and Miss Rogers the Cincinnati Commercial thus speaks:

"The new American society drama, entitled 'Maud Muller,' was played the second time at this theatre last night, and will be continued during the week. It seems a misnomer to write of the enactment of the leading character by Miss Genevieve Rogers as of the natural school of acting, or indeed as acting at all, so clear is it from the signs of any schooling whatever, and from the least appearance of staginess. If it be art, it has wholly concealed art. It seems to be nature itself, as if the veritable innocent and frank country girl had come upon the stage with all the unconscious freshness of nature.

"There are scenes of highest emotion and pathos, in which any sign of straining for effect would make them grate on the sensibilities, but Miss Rogers rises so naturally to the height of expression in th se that the emotions of the spectator are carried along with her. She so becomes to the beholder the veritable Maud that it is hard to conceive that she can be any thing else."

Sunday School Normal Classes.

This subject was discussed on Friday night at the Sunday school institute, which has been in progress at the Second Baptist church for the past week. Rev T C Boykin explained in a very interesting manner the nature and importance of normal classes, and was followed by Prof Mallon, who gave some excellent suggestions from his rich store of experience. The professor thought that the time had now come for a perfect and general Sunday school normal class to train teachers for their work, and in a short while a general class would be formed There is no doubt but that teachers ought to be better trained, and we hope that each church will consider the important subject at once

Prof. Mallon promised his Baptist friends to deliver a lecture to them if they formed a class. If the institute results in nothing more, it will have amply paid.If it shall have been the result of developing normal classes in our various churches.

All the meetings have been highly profitable and interesting. Go out to the mass meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock

RELIGIOUS ITEMS.

Local Church Appointments, Etc.

—To day a large number of our citizens will go to Gainesville to hear Bishop Pierce and other distinguished preachers. The Air-Line road will give half fare to all visitors.

—An excursion will leave the city at 7:30 this morning for Rome where the Catholic church will be dedicated.

—Not a single Methodist preacher in north Georgia has died during the past year.

—The Christian church is rapidly enlarging its membership in Atlanta.

—The Sunday School institute has been in session four nights past in the Second Baptist church. All the Baptist churches in the city have been represented, and the exercises have been very interesting. Rev T C. Boykin, state Sunday school evangelist, has been conducting the services.

—The young men's building association of the First Methodist church made a fine stroke by their fair last week. These young men have done a great work in aiding in the completion of their church.

—Rev. Benjamin Johnson still conducts his newsboys' Sunday school. Its attendance increases constantly.

—The rules of most of the churches on temperance are being tightened. It is time to do so.

—In the death of Bishop Marvin the southern Methodist church lost one of its noblest and ablest men.

—Some of the southern conferences are laboring under a difficulty which is called "over-grazing." In some localities the circuits have been divided until the preachers can't get sufficient food from their limited fields.

—President Hayes sent his check for $100 to help pay the debt of a Presbyterian church in Richmond, his interest in the matter having been excited by his recent visit to that city.

—The Northern Methodist church extension society, which was organized to assist weak churches by loans or gifts, to secure edifices, has held its twelfth annual meeting at Philadelphia. The receipts for ten months of the year including three items, were $.07,103, against $80 499 for the same period last year. The receipts include collections from the conferences and bequests, income from the loan fund, and amount of loans returned. The number of churches aided the past year was 222 of which 158 were aided by donations. The churches aided are scattered all over the country. The southern states receive the largest proportion of assistance. In Georgia the society has aided in the erection of 117 churches in the past nine years.

—Grand Sunday school mass meeting at 3 o'clock p m and 7 o'clock p m. Although a Baptist gathering all denominations are cordially invited to be present. All the schools will assist in singing. Short addresses by Messrs Boykin and Gwin. These meetings will be the concluding exercises of the Sunday school institute

—Y. M. C. A. Gospel meeting at hall, No 68 Whitehall street, every Sunday afternoon at 4 o clock All cordially invited to attend.

—Evans Chapel. Rev. Geo. E Gardner, pastor. Preaching at 11 a m by Judge D F Hammond; at night by Rev John O Donnelly Sunday school at 4 p m J L Richmond, superintendent.

—Fifth Baptist Church. Preaching by the pastor, Rev V C Norcross, at 11 a m and 7 p m.

—Third Baptist. Preaching at 11 o'clock a m and 6:30 p m. Wm Y Spence, pastor.

—Payne's Chapel. Preaching at 11 a m by Dr John Goodman. Preaching at 7 p m by Rev Mr Brown.

—Second Baptist Church, Washington corner Mitchell street. Services, 11½ a m by Rev D W Gwin, D D, and 7 p m by Rev T C Boykin. Sunday school mass meeting of the annual Sunday school institute 3 p m conducted by Rev T C Boykin, superintendent Baptist sunday schools of the state, —Divine service at First M. E church 11 o'clock in the morning, and 7 o'clock at night by Rev Benj Johnson.

—The Young Men's Union Prayer meeting will be held at the First Methodist church on Peachtree street Thursday night Nov 6th. All the young men of Atlanta especially all those that feel an interest in the religious welfare of the young, are cordially invited.

—First Baptist Church. Services 11 a m. Preaching by pastor, Rev D W Gwin, D D. No preaching at night. All are invited to attend.

—Church of the Immaculate Conception, corner Loyd and E st Hunter streets. Services at 7, 10:30 a m and 5 p m. Sermon by the reverend pastor.

—The Catholic fair opens on the 5th inst. Go there and see the beautiful premiums to be raffled

—The ladies' fair promises to be a success to judge by the warm interest that is taken in it.

FACT AND RUMOR.

—The Atlanta Daily Tribune, in speaking of the legislative race, concludes an article as follow: "We learn Henry Hillyer, Esq., is a candidate. We regret the lateness of the hour prevents our writing such a notice of this favorite and talented son of Fulton as his candidacy deserves. He served in the last legislature, and served faithfully and with ability. Fulton county should contribute his ability to the state by returning him to the legislature."

—The brisk wintry winds continue.

—Woodlands around Atlanta are fast being laid low.

—The Catholic fair promises to be a big success.

—Camphor with glycerine and suet is the best thing for chaps. It can be found at Taylor & Wimberly's.

—The ladies are alive and at work heart and hand for the library.

—The mountain farmers of northeast Georgia are sending us some very fine apples

—Dr. Little is making his rooms at the capitol very attractive. Some beautiful new geologic specimens have recently been added to the department.

—Dr. Land has placed a telephone between his laboratory and the agricultural department of the capitol.

—The Liberal and Scientific association is rapidly increasing in membership, and its weekly meetings are occasions of great interest.

—The Dime club of the First Methodist church will meet this week.

—These winds chap the faces terribly. Camphor ice at Taylor & Wimberly's will cure them.

—The girls of the high school are preparing a very interesting entertainment to be given on the 13th —The increase in the consumption of beer and the decrease in the consumption of whisky is more apparent in Atlanta every year.

—Females are almost covered with feathers when they appear on the streets.

—General hunting parties will leave Atlanta next week.

—Kirkwood is improving.

—Go to Taylor & Wimberly's and get an excellent article of camphor-ice with glycerine and suet.

—Big excursion to Rome to-day.

—Some of the young men of the boys' high school, assisted by others, will give an entertainment for the benefit of the Young Men's Building association. They will present an excellent programme Admission 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children. Let all attend.

—Taylor & Wimberly have the best article of camphor-ice with glycerine and suet. It is excellent for chapped hands and face.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Mrs E. H. and Master Ben Neal Thornton are visiting Mr. T B Neal at Meridian, Miss. and a Whitehall book merchant is dreadfully chocolate.

—Mr. Charles G. Eckford, one of our most popular and accomplished young men, has been engaged by the reliable house of J S Warren & Co., of New York, as their traveling salesman for the southern states, with headquarters at Atlanta. Many eastern and western houses have headquarters in our city, and Warren & Co have exhibited superior wisdom in the step taken Mr Eckford is well-known to the trade and the public generally, and at this time is president of the Young Men's Christian association of our city.

—Mr. Thad. Hammond, of the Markham house, was forty years old day before yesterday. He was the recipient of numerous presents from his many friends.

LOCAL PADDING.

– Good weather.

—On Thanksgiving day there was a rushin' invasion of Turkey.

—At the library fair, Mr. Bob Billups and Mr Henry Durand will be run by their friends for a suit of clothes

—Mr. Librarian Harmon is quite sick, and Mr. Billups is in charge at the library.

—The directors have set their heads on making $3 000 at the fair.

—Bill Moore says that a church member reconciles his conscience to going to theaters by saying that there is a book of Acts in the Bible.

LOCAL DRAMATIC DOTS.

—"Maud Muller," by charming Genevieve Rogers on the 14th and 15th.

—Harry Robinson on the 8th.

—We at last have the promise of a good opera troupe which we hope to see well patronized.

—The Heywood Brothers will appear here on Wednesday night They give a variety performance which is pronounced excellent.

—Kate Claxton has passed us and gone skipping to her northern home.

EXECUTIVE NOTES.

—Yesterday S. W. Adams was commissioned justice of the peace for the 1208th district in Whitfield county.

—Everything was decidedly quiet around the executive office yesterday.

—Secretary Barnett will have his hands full this week with election returns.

—Governor Colquitt will probably be home to-morrow.

Letter from Dr. White.

ATLANTA, GA., Dec. 1, 1877.

Editors Constitution—Gents: In this morning's issue you have as my reply to parties asking what part of Georgia was the best for them to locate, with the best hopes of regaining health, &c., &c., "you say of the villages on the Air-Line railroad." I have also unintentionally mentioned the several villages and counties on the Western and Atlantic railroad, particularly calling attention to Marietta, Cartersville and Dalton. And our glorious city of Atlanta was not forgotten. You will please do me the kindness to correct this, I know, unintentional oversight. Respectfully,

WM. H. WHITE.

ATLANTA'S MAIL.

The Figures for November.

Atlanta gets more mail than any two other cities in Georgia put together. The figures show this to be the fact. It will be seen by the accompanying figures that our post office is the scene of lively work and that our carriers have very heavy work to do. Through the courtesy of Postmaster Conley we are enabled to give the following figures:

LETTER CARRIER'S REPORT FOR NOVEMBER.

Registered letters delivered	1 079
Mail letters delivered	64 080
Mail postal cards delivered	15,055
Local letters delivered	8,439
Local postal cards delivered	5 344
Newspapers, etc, delivered	21 203
Letters collected	44,710
Postal cards collected	15 377
Newspapers, etc, collected	4,436
Postage on mail matter for local delivery	$219 06
Amount paid carriers and express	$361 11

The Scottish Commercial Insurance Company.

We would call attention to the card of this company in another column, and in doing so, would also call attention to the fact that its local agency has been turned over to the managment of that sterling old Nestor of insurance in our city, Major Jno. C. Whitner.

This is one of the very best companies represented here. Its record is without a blemish or a wrinkle. Having complied with our deposit law, placing $25,000 in the hands of the state treasurer for the security of Georgia policy holders, it has thus become identified with our people and our interests. This, backed by six and a half millions of dollars, makes a very satisfactory assurance of security to our property holders And these, backed by the long experience, the promptness and the unswerving integrity of Maj Whitner, the local agent, gives one holding its policy a complacency of assurance which is worth a great deal.

Send your orders to W. S. Wilson & Bro. if you want the best and cheapest Coal sold in the market. Yards on Hunter street (new office) and 25 N. Broad street.

John Ryan's stock of Dry Goods, Carpets, Oilcloths, Mattings, Boots and Shoes is complete in every department. To undersell him in anything is simply impossible.
24 dec2 1t

A Big Crowd.

Such a crowd as frequented John Keely's store during the past week has scarcely been known in the history of the city. From 10 o'clock until 3 or 4 o'clock each day, it is a perfect jam, and bundles! bundles! we never saw the like of bundles! On Saturday alone, Mr. Keely sold one hundred and four pairs of blankets, and cloaks innumerable.

With a tremendous stock of goods, and a large and efficient corps of clerks, he is doing business on a grand scale. His affability and promptness render him justly popular with the public.

His immense warehouse is a model of system and activity. We wish and predict for him a heavy Christmas trade.

A grand steeple chase, a novelty in skating, will be given at the Rink next Tuesday night. We can say to those attending that it will be a splendid affair, and one which they will not regret having attended. 62 dec2 1t

John Ryan has just received the new crop of the Great American Tea Company Teas, put up in packages of one pound each. He will sell at the same price the company sells in New York. 24 dec2 1t

Notice.

We receive our Coal fresh out of the ground daily. It is therefore much freer, nicer burning Coal than Coal that has been mined all summer and exposed to the sun and rains. We sell it at only 25 cents per bushel. If you want the best send us your orders.
70 dec2 1t W. S. WILSON & BRO.

TRUNKS, TRUNKS, TRUNKS.

The largest stock of Ladies' and Gents' Trunks will be sold during this week at New York Manufacturers' prices at the New York Store, 48 Whitehall street.

The Skating Rink, always a popular resort for recreation and pleasure in the winter, will be the great attraction in the city next Tuesday night. 62 dec2 1t

The Eclipse Cash Box.

During the past few years there have been offered to the public many varieties of packages, all purporting to contain prizes of different kinds, but generally they have signally failed to satisfy the natural expectations of purchasers by reason of the absence of such prizes as they were said to contain. The consequence is, that most prize boxes heretofore sold have been voted frauds. To all rules, however, there are exceptions, and to the article of prize boxes the Eclipse cash box is the exception, as it comes up in every particular to the representation of the manufacturer. In each gross of these boxes forty dollars in various denominations, is scrupulously packed, and every box contains a cash prize. These goods are for sale by dealers everywhere. They contain, besides the prize, a quantity of fine French confectionery, constituting altogether an article well adapted to the approaching holiday trade. See advertisement.

There will be a steeple chase, fancy skating, a dance and other attractions next Tuesday night at the Skating Rink, and it will be one of the most interesting and recherche affairs of the kind ever given in Atlanta.

The Learned Pig and the Cute Marmozets

Mr. George Johnson, well-known in Atlanta, has opened a museum on Broad street, two doors below THE CONSTITUTION office. He has several very rare attractions, which the public will find quite interesting.

His marmozets and their young are in fine health. The little fellows are remarkably pretty and are as happy and frisky as an average marmozet can be.

The most attractive feature in the museum is the educated pig, whose performances are simply wonderful.

The assistant of Mr. Johnson, who has trained the pig began only two weeks ago, and he pronounces his present pupil the most brilliant pig he has ever known. He has already learned all the tricks done by educated hogs. He can readily select any number from a list of more than a dozen. He can readily add any two numbers together with unfailing accuracy, tell the time of the day by looking at a watch. He can tell all sorts of things about public men, and is said to play a very fine game of "seven up." His performances always create much amusement and are well worth seeing.

Mr Johnson has other features of interest in his museum and he will be glad to see the public at his performances, which occur every day.

THE NEW DEPARTURE;
"Strict Purity of the Ballot."

It has been said at home and abroad, that no one could be elected to office in this county without corrupt means. I have been with the people, and am prepared to repel the charge The popular heart is right; it needed but to be aroused from listless indifference, to see the danger that threatens to destroy the public morality: seeing this, it will now speak out in tones not to be mistaken: Every where I am met with good cheer: "Bell, you deserve success for this movement, and you will be supported by the people"

N. C. Harry.

Mr. N. C. Harry has quit the house painting business, and is in future going to devote himself to ornamental and sign painting exclusively. He has recently finished a superb job for Messrs. Joseph E. Johnston & Co., insurance agents, which is a credit to any one in his business. The art displayed in all jobs left to him would do credit to a much older head than Mr. Harry's. He not only does work for the love of it, but with an eye to please the most fastidious. We can safely recommend Mr Harry to all who are desirous of having anything done in his line.

Mr. A. E. McKenzie, lately of Scotland, will take charge of the house painting and paper hanging department of the business. Mr. McKenzie is one of the best graiters that has ever been in the south. We refer to the job recently done by him for Mr. W. W. Boyd, jr., corner of Luckie and Forsyth streets, as a sample of his work.

The Catholic Fair.

The Catholic fair, which opens on next Wednesday night, promises to be one of the most successful of the year. There are many rare articles to be contested for, and the tables will be fairly laden with treasures. Our attention has been particularly attracted by the display in prospect on table No. 3, to be presided over by Mrs. E. T. Myers, one of the most charming ladies of the city. Among other articles, there will be a contest for a gold watch between the friends of Miss Augusta Schelpert, Miss Bessie Gunts, and Miss Katie Sessions. A Cigar Stand and Domestic Venture will also be among the attractions

Editors Constitution: I see my name announced in your paper as an independent candidate for councilman in the 5th ward. I was solicited by some of my friends to run in the nomination, but declined the honor. And when I first saw my name announced as an independent candidate, I did not think then that I would make the race. But by the urgent solicitations of some friends, I have concluded to allow my name to be run. Read the clerk of council's notice and see what he has to say about registering. The time is short. Go and register at once There are many new comers or citizens in Atlanta, and I may be a stranger to many of you. I commenced business in Atlanta in May, 1847. I was at the first election that was ever held in the city for Mayor and councils; and I have been a small tax payer from that day to the present. Our burden (taxes) was then light, but now it is like a great millstone about our necks. Please don't get my name confounded, but remember and associate it with Concord, and think of your warm Concord clothing this cold weather, and you will be certain to vote all right, and instead of looking for the yellow thread on each selvage, look to see if you have got the right names on your ticket before you vote. "Eureka" is the sentiment of countless sufferers who find balm of relief, and the fountain of their health and strength, in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the most potent of all the alternatives to purify the system and cleanse the blood. It possesses invigorating qualities, so that it stimulates the faded vitalities and purges out the corruptions which mingle with the blood, promoting derangement and decay. We are assured by many intelligent physicians that this medicine cures beyond all others of its kind, and we can fortify this statement by our own experience.—Athol (Mass.) White Flag.
